Early 20th Century Original Painted French Long Dining or Console Table

Early 20th century French 10' table, crafted in pine and retaining its original painted finish. The top is finished in distressed blue, while the base is antiqued white. The surface has been scraped and distressed through years of use, revealing natural pine wood below, while strong color still accents the top. Due to the rim around the table edge, this may have originally served as a draper's table or another form of display table. The floor to skirt height is noted at 25 inches. Restored strong, stable, and ready for use. Nicks, scratches, and cracks are seen throughout, and the tabletop shows minor separation of small planks along with additional gouges and nicks.
