Late 18th Century English Carved Walnut Side Table with Drawer

Carved walnut side table with single drawer. The drawer is accented with carved embellishments, and the table features a decorative curved skirt with additional carving visible from the sides. It stands on cylindrical legs with a slight taper. The top shows age-related separation of planks, along with fading, scratches, and gouges from long use. The walnut has developed a rich, deep patina reflective of many generations of handling and wear. Restored, strong, stable, and ready for use. Surface distress does not impact function. May also be used as a small yet distinctive small console table.
