20th Century Large Danish Oak Writing Library Table with Red Leather Top

20th century large Danish writing table, crafted in oak with a vintage burgundy red leather top. The desk stands on six legs joined by a stretcher base, with rounded metal feet caps accenting each leg. The generous scale and leather writing surface make this a substantial and highly functional work table or desk. The vintage leather has slightly pulled away and been glued down in some sections (along edges), and typical creasing, impressions, scuffs, and stains are visible across the leather work surface. The oak base shows a darker patina along the lower section. Nicks, scratches, cracks, and other signs of wear are visible throughout the base, but do not impact function. Restored, strong, stable, and ready to use.
