Late 19th Century Original Teal Blue Painted Pine Apothecary Chest of Eight Drawers

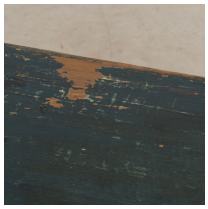

Late 19th century apothecary chest crafted in pine, retaining its original dark teal blue painted finish with contrasting red trim along the upper edge. The richly aged painted surface has been worn and distressed through generations of use, revealing many areas of natural pine beneath and creating a wonderful example of authentic European country character.
Eight drawers provide generous storage and organization; each fitted with a simple metal pull for easy opening. The practical arrangement makes this chest especially versatile for storing craft supplies, sewing materials, office essentials, or other smaller household items.
The original painted finish displays considerable wear throughout, particularly along the upper trim, top drawers, and edges. Nicks, gouges, scratches, and areas of exposed natural pine contribute to its timeworn appearance. Age related separation is visible at the upper left corner of the top and in additional areas where wooden sections meet.
Restored, stable, and ready to use. A wax finish enhances the aged surface while preserving the character of the original paint.
With its compact drawer arrangement and distinctive original blue finish, this charming apothecary chest offers both decorative appeal and practical organization for a variety of spaces.
