Early 20th Century Portuguese Pine Adjustable Drafting Table

Early 20th century Portuguese drafting table crafted in pine, featuring an adjustable work surface designed for drawing, drafting, and other creative pursuits. The straightforward construction and natural pine finish reflect the practical character of traditional workshop furniture. The tabletop can be raised and supported in three different notched positions, allowing the working surface to be adjusted to different angles. It can also be lowered for use as a flat table, making this a versatile piece for a studio, office, or creative workspace.
Signs of age and use include scratches, old markings, and minor staining across the work surface. Residual evidence of old dried wormhole activity is visible along the base, but the activity is no longer active and does not impact function.
Restored, stable, waxed, and ready to use. A practical and characterful European country pine drafting table with an adjustable work surface and an authentic vintage workshop appearance.
