19th Century Hungarian Original Teal Blue Hand-Painted Pine Flat Top Trunk

19th century Hungarian flat-top trunk crafted in pine, retaining its original hand-painted folk art finish. The deep teal blue background is accented with red, yellow, and cream floral decoration arranged within two painted panels across the front, creating a charming example of traditional Hungarian country craftsmanship.

The trunk rests on four low, flat bun feet. Its original painted finish has become heavily worn and distressed along the top, revealing areas of natural pine with a reddish undertone.

The hinged top opens to reveal a spacious storage interior with a small compartment along the upper left side. The old key is included as a decorative accent only, as the lock is no longer functional.

Generations of use are evident in age related separation between the planks of the top, running horizontal. Additional cracks, particularly near the upper left corner, along with scratches, gouges, and other signs of wear are visible throughout. Cracking is also present along the interior bottom. Residual evidence of old dried wormhole activity is visible but is no longer active and does not affect function.

Restored, strong, stable, and finished with wax to enhance the naturally aged surface.

This decorative Hungarian trunk would work beautifully as a small coffee table, a storage chest at the foot of a bed, or an accent piece in a country interior.
