18th Century Large French Bleached Oak Chest of Three Drawers

Large 18th century French chest of three drawers crafted in oak with a bleached finish that reveals the natural wood grain and centuries of character. The substantial chest features three large drawers, each fitted with heavy brass pulls. The pulls vary in design from drawer to drawer, adding an interesting detail to the aged appearance. A carved scalloped skirt enhances the lower front, while graceful cabriole legs terminate in distinctive carved lion paw feet. The combination of decorative carving and generous drawer storage reflects traditional French furniture craftsmanship.
More than two centuries of use are evident across the oak surface. The top is composed of three planks with visible age related separation between them, along with multiple stains, scratches, cracks, and other markings. The drawers have shifted over time and no longer fit tightly or sit perfectly flush within the case.
Vertical cracks and age related separation are visible along both sides. Additional wear appears along the upper rear edge, while the back and rear legs show old repairs and further distress. Residual signs of old dried wormhole activity are present throughout, but the activity is no longer active and does not impact function.
Restored, stable, and ready to use. A substantial French antique chest combining bleached oak, carved lion paw feet, and the authentic character of generations of use.
