Early 20th Century Danish Black Painted Display Cabinet

This Danish cupboard may be used as a narrow display cabinet or bookcase. The upper pane glass doors allow for lovely display of any collection held within.
The newer professionally applied black painted finish is lightly distressed to fit the age and grace of the cabinet. The contrasting interior is painted in blue (with specks of white), creating a great background for displayed items. Canted sides with glass, lower panel doors with traditional paneling.
Upper 2 shelves are carved along edges, with depth ranging between 8.5-9" and lowest area of upper cabinet is 9.5" deep.
Restored, this cupboard (built in two sections) is stable and ready for use. Old locks still function with included key for each. Note nicks/wear seen along edges to right of lower key.
Scratches, cracks, dings, and age related separation seen throughout are reflective of age and do not detract from the beauty nor function of this lovely cabinet. Upper back appears to have been replaced at an earlier point in time. Note additional distress to lower right of back.
Please refer to professional photos for clear understanding of color, condition, and details; photo lighting, individual monitor display and home lighting all impact how item is viewed. Photos are part of item description, please ask questions or request additional photos of specific areas if needed.
